

Unfortunate Course

An old county road,
A buggy and horse
Pages turned back
Reversing the course

Of nature's decay
Degraded and lost -
Man has evolved
But it's come at a cost.

From the mineral earth
Emerges the tower,
Converging with others
Hour by hour.

The planet explodes
Into cities and towns
Eroding the forest
And canopy crowns.

Attempting to right
An unfortunate course,
Alone in the country
A buggy and horse.
